GAHSP has been at the center of important creative discourse and discovery since its launch in 2020. As the first media platform bridging editorial direction with publishing that is straight from the source - its invited Leaders and Talents -, we aim to exhibit the most original conversations that impact and influence the world creatively. Our conversations have brought together more than 400 Contributors, from 40+ cities and 25+ disciplines so far, including leading designers, artists, performers, and innovators.

Our experiential organizational structure fosters a new intersection between media-related practices, future creative training, and cross-disciplinary collaboration. By exploring interactive publishing formats that prioritize free expression, critical thinking, and empathy, we continuously discover new talents and opportunities; and build an ecosystem in which they connect and thrive harmoniously.
